

Approval Expected For 9 Million College Budget

By Joan Stack

SSC's $9 million budget proposal for the new fiscal year beginning July, 1976 is awaiting final approval by the Maryland legislature, having been reduced only $30,000 below what the college administration requested.

Joseph K. Gilbert, assistant to the president, said, "Although it hasn't been officially approved by the legislature, the final step in the process, it's pretty much of a sure thing."

Gilbert said that one of the main reasons the budget went through basically intact is the Middle States Association report of last year which pointed out the unsatisfactory level of funding to SSC.

"The Middle States Association said they would return in a year to see whether we had obtained adequate funding," said Gilbert. "That had a lot to do with the budget not being cut significantly."

He said the budget includes the addition of 10 faculty members, a professional librarian and 28 "support personnel" such as security officers, housekeepers, secretaries and maintenance workers.

SSC's proposed nursing program is also included in this budget, Gilbert said.

"The nursing program is all set to go, but it won't be started without adequate funding," he said.

This is the first time in recent years the budget has passed so well. "This is the first time I remember that we've actually been pleased," said Gilbert.

Putting the budget together is a long, involved process which begins over a year in advance. "We're already working on compling next year's budget, said Gilbert.

The Director of Business and Financial Affairs, Gordon H. Howatt, coordinates putting the budget together, collecting requests for money from the departments. He compiles those requests and submits them to the President's office where they are reviewed.

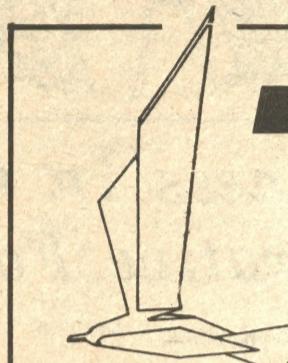

The budget is then sent to the Board of Trustees of state colleges in Annapolis. They compile a budget for all state colleges.

It is next sent to the State Department of Business and Fiscal Planning where it is analyzed and reviewed again before being sent to the governor.

The governor reviews it and submits it to the legislature as part of his executive budget. This is where our budget for next year is now.

The budget is again reviewed in the legislature by a professional analyst who makes whatever recommendations he feels are appropriate. The legislature then acts on it, ultimately approving some form of the original budget.

Enrollment Decreases Slightly

By Carolyn Carson

Salisbury State College's total student enrollment this spring has decreased 3.1 percent below last fall's to 3,723 students, according to Ronald A. Phipps, director of Institutional Research. SSC's total undergraduate enrollment now stands at 2,421 students, he added.

Looking ahead, the SSC Admission Office has received 1,150 applicants for Fall 1976. This represents a 16 percent increase over the number of applicants for the same time last year.

According to Malvin P. Minton, associate director of Admissions, the office expects to receive 2,000 applicants for next semester. Already 534 people have accepted admission and paid a deposit fee of $50. This is a 30 percent increase over last year's figure of 409. However, Minton expects this percentage to drop, feeling that it may be a result of public relations efforts to get students to sign up early for housing.

Minton added that SSC will be able to accommodate around 1,100 new students next year. The Admissions Office considers three criteria in choosing future students: high school records, SAT verbal, and SAT math scores. Transfers must have a 2.0 cumulative average, and at least 12 credits.

It would be impossible to pinpoint SSC's popularity to one factor. Minton suggested some of the reasons may be the availability of new marketable disciplines such as business, medical technology, nursing, and social work, increased intensity in public relations (visiting high schools), the athletic program, academic factors, such as the N grade and last but not least, the proximity of SSC to Ocean City.

Out-of-State Student Tuition Increase Set For Fall Semester

By Boyd Pusey

Out-of-state SSC student tuition will jump from $650 to $900 per year starting next fall. The action was mandated by the Board of Trustees of the Maryland State Colleges at their January meeting in Cockeysville. The action eliminates the scheduled increase to $850 stated in the SSC catalog.

Gordon H. Howatt, director of business and financial affairs, stated the impact of the increase on out-of-state enrollment will be hard to measure. He said he was presently preparing to analyze the out-of-state fees in neighboring states state colleges. He added that the fall out-of-state enrollment was approximately 13 percent.

Also mandated by the trustees was the $550 per year room charge for each student to live in the dormitory complex presently under construction. The Residence Hall Association met last week to establish a priority system to see which student would be eligible to live in the new dorms.

Other increases were approved by the trustees but were left to each college to enforce. A $100 increase in the college's curriculum fee was approved. However, Howatt said his office was preparing a preliminary rate schedule to see how much of the $100 the college would need. He said he felt that the present $270 yearly fee would increase by no more than $50.

Other fee increases approved by the trustees but not to be imposed by SSC are a three dollar increase per undergraduate credit hour for part-time and summer session students and a seven dollar increase per graduate credit hour.

Nominations Open For SGA Elections

The Student Government Association is now accepting nominations for its spring elections to be held on April 5-6. The deadline for accepting nominations is March 20.

The offices open for nominations are President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, Rules Committee Chairman, Board of Visitors Representative, Student Academic Affairs Chairman, Communications Advisory Board Chairman, and commuter representatives and resident representatives. For further information concerning the election, contact Dave Wadsworth in Chester Hall 4A5 or Box 166.

Chesapeake Dorm Complex:

Eligibility Requirements Discussed

The Residence Hall Advisory Council has decided that SSC's new dorm, scheduled to be opened in September, will be filled on a class standing priority basis, with students in traditional dorms having priority over those in co-ed facilities.

The new dorm, which is part of a two building unit tentatively called the Chesapeake Complex, will house 184 students. Construction on the second building in the complex has not yet begun.

The council has laid out the basic rules for filling the dorm, but the specific procedures have not been worked out yet, according to Robert Lovely, director of the housing department.

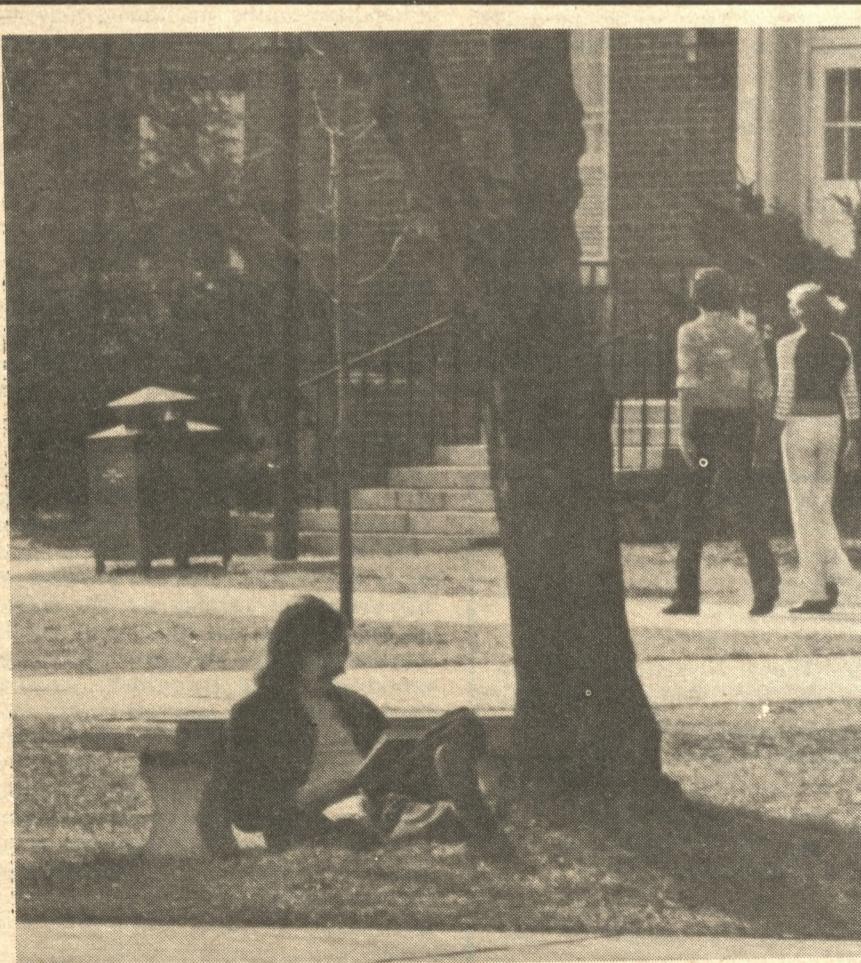

Lovely said, "There are still some details to be ironed out, like whether the priority will run strictly by class standing, or whether juniors and seniors in traditional dorms will have a higher priority."

The new dorm will be filled by clusters of four rooms, or eight people, instead of by room. This means that eight people have to decide to go into a cluster in the new building together.

Since a student with upperclass standing can "carry" a roommate, at least four people in the cluster must be upperclassmen. Each cluster will have four rooms, a bathroom, a living area and a kitchen facility. Rent for each person will be $275 per semester.

The Residence Hall Advisory Council will decide on the specific procedures at its next meeting. The council, which consists of one representative and one alternate from each dorm, meets once a month.

Among the other plans the council contemplated were a lottery and a grade-point average priority system.

A brief taste of spring weather, last Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday brought students out of hibernation. Temperatures climbed above the 70 degree mark each day, bringing "spring fever" and the flu. (Photo by Alastair Burton)

Bilingual Ed. Programs Needed

By Fran Hill

Bilingual-bicultural education is fast becoming a necessity in the USA. Many states have already adopted legislation supporting or mandating this type of education. Maryland is not one of those states. Perhaps the state of Maryland does not yet feel the need or see the value of bilingual-bicultural education application. Prejudice and discrimination must be thrown aside!

The disadvantages of a person from another culture, speaking a foreign language, are many, too many. For instance, that person does not get the full benefits of a good education which every American citizen is entitled to. This is due to a lack of understanding on both sides.

A native American is unable to understand a Spanish-speaking American's way of living because the traditions, religious activities, daily functions, as well as language and gestural implications and a host of other customs differ from culture to culture. Until both parties are made aware of the magnitude of these differences through learning will America be able to say, with any truth, that "We are one nation under God." I don't believe America could continue to function as one nation for there would be too many barriers among its peoples. It is time to flip the coin and have a look at the other side.

It's time for the cards to be laid on the table, to open our eyes to all prejudice and discrimination and to break down the barriers and stand united!

Students Need Voting Power

By Marshall Moore & Jerry Barbieri

Why aren't students important at SSC? What is the sense of having a college if it isn't for the student population? These questions and more continue to pop up whenever we think about how policy is formulated and adopted at this institution. Students are not given any substantive voice policy making.

The Student Government Association has the position of Academic Affairs chairman who acts as the liaison between students and faculty and administration; yet he does not have a single vote on any policy making board. And he is lucky if he even receives notice of a meeting. There are three major faculty committees on campus that does make recommendations and implements policy. Yet on not one do the Academic Affairs person nor any student for that matter have any vote. He only has an opinion on the Academic Council. We feel if he had a vote, he truly would be listened to and would become an active member of this important board and not just a thorn in the side. The Faculty Conference recently tabled an amendment to allow students on the admissions committee. Also, as stated before, the Academic Affairs person never hears from these boards, nor, from the newly formed Faculty Forum who say they are, "definitely concerned with controversial issues pertaining to SSC and education in general." Why don't these organizations see fit to allow students substantive input?

When SGA approached the Academic Council last semester and asked for a vote on the board, we were told that the Council is only a faculty organization and only faculty can vote. Is this just?

The Middle States evaluating team last spring commented on the lack of student input in policy making and since then some faculty and administrators have shown genuine interest in this problem. But we feel the school has not gone far enough. Three thousand students left in the dark is a big problem. Why are not students given the facts and their opinions solicited? Why weren't students involved in the decision to eliminate senior week and move graduation to the middle of May this year? Why are not students given any information concerning the proposed merger with UMES? We are not power hungry as some faculty or administrators may believe. We are just concerned students who want a say in how our school life is handled. After all, without students why should the rest of the people be here? Let us get involved. College ought to be a two-way street.

It is probably asking too much to request that the parents of these adorable little cherubs leave them at home or perhaps in a relative's rumpus room, but is it asking too much of the librarians to attempt to reprimand the parents or the children?

Even supposing that a college library is the place to bring children, our Blackwell has nothing to offer for a pre-adolescent but an elevator that only climbs one floor and does not (unfortunately) lock the little tykes inside for the duration of stay.

Come on, library administrators, the solitude of Blackwell is endangered enough by the SSC student body without bringing in outsiders to disrupt what little peace and quiet remains. Can't children be kept out of Blackwell? Or would it just be simpler to rename the building a library-nursery?

Openness In Government Imperative For Future

By Wayne Noble

The citizen's role in government has been undermined by the loss of confidence in government. The only way to restore the confidence of the people in government is to create a system that's open, accountable, and not corrupt.

We should ask all presidential and congressional candidates to pledge support of specific measures to assure openness and integrity in the executive and legislative branches, such as open meetings of regulatory and advisory committees or commissions, personal financial disclosures by public officials, disclosures of lobbying directed toward public officials, stronger conflict of interest laws, and the creation of an agency in the Justice Department to investigate corruption and abuse of power of public officials.

Presidential candidates should be asked not to nominate a campaign or political party official to the post of attorney general or any other position in the Justice Department. They should seek new charters for agencies with covert investigative functions such as the FBI, CIA and IRS, and specify what changes they will propose in their charters. An example would be to investigate operations or oversight to secure personal freedoms, prevent abuses of power, and invasion of privacy, and protect the integrity of foreign and domestic policy. These steps will ensure openness and integrity in government as well as the protection of our civil liberties.

Citizens should become interested in the machinery of government because it is important in the functioning of government. All the great goals of humane and honest government may count for nothing if the machinery of government is unequal to the task given to it.

This is what is currently giving the average American citizen big fits. Big promises, but no results. More taxes and more taxes and more government red tape. The voter's reaction isn't just annoyance. It's closer to rage.

Responsiveness is an essential element in a government which hopes to regain public trust. But one of the justified complaints is that too often government won't listen and respond.

Problem solving is a major challenge for anyone who seeks executive office. We need government which can anticipate long range needs and problems, develop information and make forecasts necessary for policy alternatives and promote public debate concerning the alternatives.

The world we are facing is close to being unmanageable. In our society, where everybody wants everything, there are hard choices ahead and real sacrifices for all of us. Unless we have leadership that helps us clarify alternatives and government institutions that are able to resolve complex problems, our society will eventually cease to be. Therefore, we as citizens had better take it upon ourselves and find out how our candidates intend to govern.

Barber To Speak Here Tonight

By Joyce Loeffler

As early as the spring of 1969 Dr. James David Barber concluded that Richard Nixon was "among those striving Presidents who arrange their own defeats."

At 8 p.m. tonight in Holloway Hall, Barber, who is chairman of the political science dept. at Duke University, will speak on "How to Choose a President" - as the results of the New Hampshire primary are becoming known. He will be on campus all day tomorrow attending classes and group discussions.

Barber uses a personality approach to studying politics which involves looking at the potential of a candidate in terms of personal qualities. He contends there are factors that seem to be at work fairly early in the campaign to the favor of some candidates, and the elimination of others.

H. Basehart, assistant professor of political science, says Barber's aim is to "help people help themselves to find a better President. He is interested in appealing to an audience larger than the academic community."

ABC recording artists, "The Amazing Rhythm Aces" whose "hit" "Third Rate Romance" soared up the charts several months ago, will be appearing at Salisbury State College on February 27. Appearing also is "Vixen", a four female hard rock band who has spent a few years on the west coast club circuit.

"The Amazing Rhythm Aces", a fairly young band, have done rather well in their short life. With a high ranking single and an excellent album to their credit "The Amazing Rhythm Aces" are an upcoming asset to the music industry.

"The Amazing Rhythm Aces" a six man lineup consist of guitar, bass, drums, organ, piano, and a lead singer who also plays guitar. From touring the southern club circuit this band has received many high praising reviews from their fans. The music produced by this band may be described basically as country rock with a little rock and blues on the side.

"Vixen", originally from St. Paul, Minnesota, has toured with some of the finest rock bands around like Ted Nugent and the Amboy Dukes and The Pure Prairie League. "Vixen's" music is all rock and roll and their program includes original music as well as songs by Jeff Beck, Spooky Tooth, Poco, and Bad Company, and many other well known performers of fine rock and roll.

This Mini-concert is sponsored by the C.C.P.B. and is free to all students and $2 for the staff. The concert will be held on Friday, February 27, in Holloway Hall Auditorium at 8 p.m. This concert is not open to the public.

The music department of Salisbury State College will be sponsoring a jazz ensemble performance on Wednesday, March 17 in Holloway Hall Auditorium. All are invited.

Ward Foundation Here To Stay

By Melanie Cook

The Wildfowl Museum of the Ward Foundation, located in the Holloway Hall Gallery, though still not officially opened, has been acquiring new art pieces recently, according to Joseph K. Gilbert, assistant to the president. He said that some new oil paintings and models of hunting boats have been added and more display cases are being built.

The museum is primarily a selection from the Ward Brothers' private collection of carvings, owned by the Foundation, carved during the years 1918 to 1972.

This summer the museum will open on a regular basis. Presently, the museum is open on special requests by groups and also for special events. A social function for the graduating class was held there in December and the museum was open for the recent visits of Margaret Mead, Ruby

Ward, 81, presently a patient in a Washington Hospital, has leukemia. Lem Ward the other brother, has a paralyzed arm, resulting from a stroke.

The museum will still serve as a memorial to the Wards' contributions to the folk art form. The brothers visited the museum in October and according to Gilbert, were visibly touched.

Gilbert said that the Ward Foundation has submitted a request for grant money for additional acquisitions. When the museum opens on a regular basis, students will be needed to serve as guides, hosts, and hostesses.

SEAGULL SPORTS

Three Matmen Win In Turney

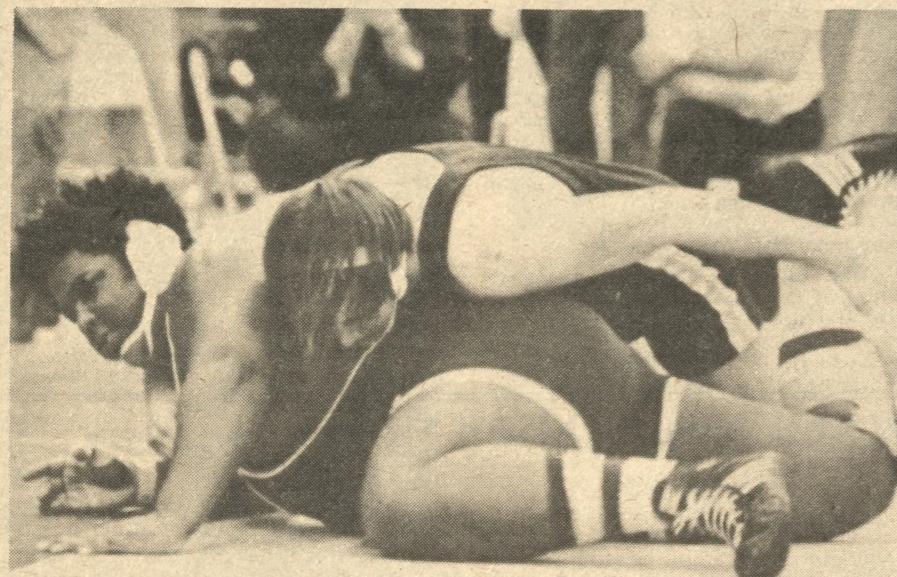

For three of Salisbury's grapplers, the Mason-Dixon Tournament proved to be very rewarding. Craig Bradley, Dave Wadsworth, and Paul Pepal won the championship in their respective classes, and will advance to the national's in a few weeks. The Gulls placed fourth as a team in the tournament, behind George Mason, Towson, and Baltimore.

The 134 pound Bradley had little difficulty in gaining a decision over John Schuster of Loyola 12-3. He led 8-0 after the first period, and from there coasted on to victory. It was Bradley's 19th straight victory, tops on the Sea Gull squad. He has shown vast improvement according to Coach Mike McGlinchey, as Bradley has come back to defeat many who faired well against him last season.

The Gulls' second champion was 167 pound Dave Wadsworth. It took a strong finish by Wadsworth to decision Bill Cameron of George Mason 5-2. Falling behind 2-0 on a second period takedown, Wadsworth came back to take a 3-2 lead at the mid-way point of the final periods on two escapes and one stalling point. With approximately 10 seconds to go in the match, he scored a takedown to put the match on ice.

It was Wadsworth's 17th victory of the year, with one loss and one tie. His only defeat came on a pin in the final meet of the season against Glassboro.

SSC's third champion was heavyweight Paul Pepal, as he decisioned a much heavier Perry Williams of George Mason. Pepal gained a large 5-0 lead in the opening period, as he nearly pinned Williams. Giving up more than 100 pounds, Pepal remained tough through out the match as he recorded a second period takedown. Williams could only muster up two escape points and one stalling point. This was Pepal's 12th victory of the season, against 3 losses.

By competing in the National Championships in a few weeks, all three will have a shot at being named All-Americans.

Cagers Prepare For Tournament

By Bob Clipp

The past two weeks have proven to be ones of disappointment for the hoopsters of Salisbury State. Prior to Saturday's clash with Baltimore, the Gulls have dropped three of their last four encounters. As the case has been throughout most of the campaign, the contests were close, with no losses being by more than three points.

As this article is going to print, the Gulls have two more games before the Mason Dixon Tournament. They are 3-9 in conference play, pending the outcome of their final two games.

Among the gloom that the Gulls have experienced thus far are some promising signs. One bright spot is the vastly improved play of 6'2" guard Tyrone Mills. Ty's best game of the campaign came against a tough Towson State team, on their home floor. He hit for 14 points on the night, and pulled down many key offensive rebounds in the first half.

Another player who is showing improvement is 6' guard Jeff Sheets. Although Jeff has been a high scorer from time to time in the past, he is now showing more consistency in his shooting. Against Loyola he was 11 of 14 from the floor, and 3 of 3 from the charity strip, for a total of 25 points. He came back with 29-19 victory over a tough Glassboro State squad. John Terrell, and Kirk Palchesky each pinned their opponents, while Jim Downey, Craig Bradley, Dave Brock, and Dean Cox decisioned their men. SSC finished the dual meet season with a 14-4 mark, and were the Mason-Dixon Dual Meet Champions.

SSC Trackmen Spark In N.Y.

Salisbury State's Indoor Track team has just returned from Madison Square Garden in New York where the mile relay team competed in the 1600 meter relay. The team, composed of Steve Pitt, Rick Cornish, Pat Fletcher and Jeff Polk, turned in the winning time of 3:23.

All-Americans Pitt and Polk ran their legs of the relay in 50 seconds flat as Pitt led off and Polk anchored the team. Cornish and Fletcher ran the 2nd and 3rd

Summer Session

The upcoming summer session will be offering fewer classes than last summer.

According to Dr. Harold Schaffer, director of the summer session, all classes listed in the schedule will be available to students. The reduction in the total number of courses is to eliminate the problem of last minute class cancellations which turned out last year.

Although no team can totally rely on one player to do it all, SSC would be in trouble without 6'6", captain, Howard Shockley. Shock leads the team in scoring, rebounds, and blocked shots. It is rare to see a game when Howard doesn't hit double figures in both scoring and rebounds.

For the Gulls to fair well in the upcoming tournament, they must play at their peak, and many feel that Lambert's men may be reaching that peak at the right time. Two nights later against Towson to score 17 points in a losing cause.

Dave Garafola and Dave McEvoy are continuing to show improvement in the backcourt as well. With both starting, it gives the Gulls a three-guard offense that can break the press. Add to this that both have shown they can put the ball through the net, and one can see that SSC's guards can play with any in the conference.

legs, respectively, in identical times of 51.6 seconds. Pitt and Polk will return to New York on Friday to compete in the AAU Indoor Championships.

Tonight, the entire squad travels to Baltimore to run in a meet against Towson and host, UMBC. The indoor track season will conclude in March with the Mason-Dixon Championships that are scheduled to be held in Lexington, Va.

Changes Made

Evaluation of previous sessions plus departmental surveys to determine student needs and interest will provide the basis for deciding which classes would be taught this summer. Schaffer stressed that they are trying to meet the needs of the undergraduate student.

For the first-time evening classes will also be included in the summer schedule.

Faculty Forum Meets

Once again the Faculty Forum has convened. The meeting took place on Monday, February 16, 1976. Concerning the academic dean positions, a number of good ideas and constructive suggestions did crop up. One idea is that a set of questions be administered to the candidates to discover their views on certain situations the position of academic dean contends with.

A list of these questions, along with the results pertaining to the discussion of the grading system, will be released in the next issue of The Flyer.

Minimester

There is a change in policy regarding minimester courses. According to Harold Schaffer, director of Continuing Education, minimester courses can only be taken for credit as electives.

The spring minimester, May 17 until June 4, provides an opportunity to participate in experimental courses proposed by students as well as faculty for one to three hours of credit.

Academic Dean Search Continues

By Doug Jones

The Academic Dean Search Committee, named last month by Norman C. Crawford, Jr., SSC president, is now accepting and screening applications from prospective candidates, according to Frederick Durr, committee chairman.

Durr said the committee, which is meeting weekly, has set a March 15 deadline for receiving applications and plans to submit a list of qualified candidates to Crawford by April 15.

The committee has placed an advertisement inviting applications in the Chronicle of Higher Education, a weekly professional journal, and circulated copies of the ad to the faculty and administration staff requesting nominations and applications from on-campus.

The position of academic dean, which has a salary range of $23,950 to $29,355, will be available July 1 due to the resignation of Thomas L. Erskine, the present dean, which was announced last December.

Durr pointed out that his committee is not taking applications for the position of associate dean, soon to be vacated by Frederick A. Kundell's resignation.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate and "give evidence of a commitment to higher education through teaching and scholarly achievement," according to the committee's advertisement.

SSC Sponsoring Mexico Trip

A study trip to Mexico is being sponsored by Salisbury State College this summer.

The trip, offering a maximum of six hours credit, is scheduled to depart from Baltimore on July 14 and return August 2. The group will visit Oaxaca, Mexico City, Puebla, Toluca, Teotihuacan, Tula, Merida, Chichen Itza, Uxmal and Cozumel.

The trip is open to all students, teachers, alumni or friends of the College. For further information, interested persons should contact Marie Tator, Room 125, Holloway Hall, Salisbury State College. (Telephone 546-3261, Ext. 442)

Those persons who want to receive college credit for the Field Study Program are required to take the planned orientation courses to be offered during the May minimester. Persons unable to meet in May will have the opportunity to review tapes which will be made available for study for the final exam.

Interest meetings are scheduled for Monday, February 23, 12 Noon in the Holloway Hall Social Room; Tuesday, February 24, at 8 p.m. in Holloway Hall Room 123; or Saturday, February 28, at 2 p.m. in the Holloway Hall Social Room.

Costs are estimated in the vicinity of $600. An additional $75 per three credit course must be paid to the college. A maximum of six hours may be taken.

Graduation Checklist Devised

By Joy L. Patchett

Graduation from college has been the highlight of college years for many but for some (including the registrar and academic counselors and deans) it has been one big headache. How would you feel if come your last semester at school you found out you were two credits short of the required 120 credits, or you owed the bookstore $47.00, from previous charges, that you didn't have, or you had the required 120 credits but had overlooked a required course for either General Education or major requirements? It does happen.

James C. Lackie, Director of the Career Development Center, and Robert McBrien, Director of Counseling Services, have devised a checklist for seniors to aid them in preparing for graduation. It involves a few common sense reminders that should serve to benefit forthcoming graduates. Be sure: 1) You have completed a minimum of 120 semester hours of Pass or C average or better. Some D's are allowed if balanced by an equal number of B's. 2) You have completed General Education requirements. 3) You have completed specific requirements for your major. Checklists for individual majors are available in the Academic Counselor's Office in 239 HH. 4) To apply for graduation. Go to the Registrar's Office and pay the fee and see that all your records are in order. 5) All financial obligations to the college have been met, otherwise transcripts will not be issued. 6) To visit the Career Development Center early in your senior year. You should be developing an effective resume and/or establishing a college credential file. These instruments are key materials in an employment search.

In an interview with Lackie, he stated a couple of the reasons for graduation requirements not being met. They are: 1) being closed out of a course as a freshman and forgetting semester after semester to pick up the class, or 2) overlooking any additional requirements that are made other than the ones the catalog requires (an example of this would be if the state added an additional requirement for teaching certification for the education major). It's a good practice for the student to keep track of changes in their major simply by visiting the department of their major.

Another problem facing the student is being closed out of a course that is sequential in nature and not having ample chance to pick up that course. CLEP tests can also present a problem in that the college credits earned through the tests may not be on the student's transcripts. It is a good idea to check for mistakes like these.

A thought to keep in mind, commented Lackie, is to keep a checklist of classes right in your college catalog. A Major's Sheet from the Office of the Academic Dean can serve the same purpose.

An additional word of advice to seniors is to start your checklist during the first semester of your senior year. That way, you have that one last semester to make up any credits or classes.
